Made for a relic of the Blessed Virgin. Of solid silver with columns and windows of rock-crystal carved intaglio. Irregular oblong form with pediment-shaped top which removes. The spreading base is supported on the corners by female figures with four fantastic winged animals between on the sides. The surface is corroded by age, but shows in places some of the original gilding. Round the windows and column bases are panels of delicate and most artistic bouille work interspersed with settings holding semi-precious stones. Round the body of the piece under the crystal windows are cameo-shaped decorative paintings, with scenes from the life of the Virgin. The columns are carved with floral scrollwork. The windows show decorations of saintly figures. One in the center shows the death of the Virgin and another a procession carrying a model of the Holy House of Loretto. Round about the top are beautifully carved figures of the Muses and the Seasons. On top of the pediment is a saint carrying the reliquary. This exquisite production of the silver-smith's art was made in France about one hundred years ago for a Spanish monastery. In artistic workmanship and conception of design it certainly rivals the famous Italian work of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.
